7.2.1 Best Practice 1- Tomorrow's Entrepreneurs

Tomorrow's Entrepreneur

Objectives :

- To create a culture of entrepreneurship among rural students.
- To provide a platform for nurturing students' ideas and skill and translating them into practical products and services.
- To promote collaboration and interaction among stakeholders to foster entrepreneurship.

Context :

Our college is located behind the Nandgaon Khandeshwar Tahasil. It is a rural area where there is a lack of platforms and opportunities for students. So, under the aegis of entrepreneurship Cell, the college has initiated a practice called Tomorrow's Entrepreneur.

Practice :

To put these principles into action, the Entrepreneurship Cell organizes guidance lectures by renowned industrialists. It also provides opportunities to the students to earn and become financially independent. For example, our female students possess skills in making homemade products like papad, kuradai, shewaya, etc. College has established Memorandum of Understanding with industries for future perspectives for better outcomes.

Evidence of Success :

In the first year, the cell had provided guidance of experts to the students. Using this platform, our two students successfully started their own business, by producing of Banana Wafers and homemade products such as Papad, Kuradai, Shewaya, etc.

Problems Encountered:

1. Students may not have the financial support required to develop and market commercial products effectively.
2. Students also need proper guidance to create sustainable and proper business models.

Name of the activity: 1) Environment Awareness and Green Ganesha Drive

In Maharashtra every year the Genesh utsaw is celebrated with great zeal and enthusiasm. This festival is celebrated since from independence but that time the way to celebrate is very simple in which the people gathered at one place where they share the thoughts of each other and plan for next step with great belief and trust on almighty.

But now a days this celebration is crowned with lush of decoration in which use of plastic is on peak, also the idol of Ganesh made from the plaster of Paris which after immersion in water bodies create the water pollution. The other material which are used in puja like flower, fruits and other things have thrown in water bodies after decomposition of these material. The oxygen level was reduced and water body got contaminated. So to avoid this the awareness program was organized by the NSS unit of Vinayak Vidnyan Mahavidyalaya from 19th September 2023 to 28th September 2023.

During the awareness week, the NSS volunteers took an active participation and visit to every home and Ganesh Mandal and ask them to collect all the Nirmalya and gave it to the volunteers so that it can convert into manure. On April 22, 2024, the National Cadet Corps (NCC) of Vinayak Vidnyan Mahavidyalaya celebrated Earth Day with a focus on environmental conservation and awareness. The theme for this year's celebration was to emphasize the collective responsibility of individuals and communities to protect the planet for future generations. The cadets conducted an awareness campaign to educate the local community about the importance of Earth Day, focusing on issues like pollution, deforestation, climate change, and water conservation. They distributed informative pamphlets and engaged with citizens on how small changes in daily habits can lead to a positive environmental impact. In line with the Earth Day theme, a tree plantation drive was organized within the college premises. The cadets, along with faculty members, planted saplings to contribute to greening the environment. The students were encouraged to take care of the plants and nurture them for long-term sustainability. Discussions and short talks on climate change, its causes, and the urgent need to take action were held. The cadets highlighted the role of youth in mitigating climate change through individual and collective action. Special attention was given to reducing carbon footprints and adopting eco-friendly habits.
